Habtamu Sewnet Gelagay, MSc, had got his first degree in Natural Resource Management and second degree in Geo-Information System since 2011 and 2014 respectively from Bahir Dar University, Ethiopia.

He is now a Geospatial Data Analyst at Spatial Data Infrastructure Program of Ethiopia (Ethio-SDIP) under Information Network Security Agency (INSA). He is the first and corresponding author of soil loss estimation using GIS and Remote sensing Techniques: A case of Koga watershed, Northwestern Ethiopia in International Journal of Soil and Water Conservation Research since February, 2016. He is also an author for the manuscript entitled “Geospatial Data sharing barriers among organization and the possible solution in Ethiopia (Revision submission In International Journal of Spatial Data Infrastructure Research).